DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shimizu et al. (US Pat. 5,824,339).

Shimizu et al. disclose coating a core with a drug, preferably a benzimidazole drug, such as lansoprazole or omeprazole in combination with crystalline cellulose where the coating can consist of a single layer or several layers, where the outer layer is an enteric coating to protect acid-sensitive drugs, wherein the average particle size of the particles in the layer are not larger than about 300 micrometers (Columns 5, 6, Column 7, lines 1-44). It is disclosed that HPMC or HPC can be added to modify the release rate (Column 7, lines 50-59). It is disclosed that the layer can be applied as a solution or dispersion (Column 8, lines 43-53).

The prior art discloses cores which are covered by a layer containing a mixture of drug and crystalline cellulose and an enteric coating. The difference between the prior art and the claimed invention is that the prior art does not expressly disclose the use of benzimidazole drugs of formula I, such as lansoprazole or omeprazole. However, the prior art amply suggest the same as benzimidazole drugs, such as lansoprazole or omeprazole, are disclosed as being the preferred drug in the cited prior art. As such, one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to modify the prior art as above with the expectation that composition would effectively deliver the benzimidazole drug, lansoprazole or omeprazole, i.e. benzimidazole drugs which fall within the scope of formula I, protect the same against stomach acids and release the drug as desired in the small intestine.

Therefore, the claimed invention, as a whole, would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, because every element of the invention has been collectively taught by the combined teachings of the references.
